THREE MORE VICTIMS ARE KILLED IN ONE OF THE WORST CRASHES EVER TO OCCUR ON THE BAYSHORE

Second Smashup On "Death Curve" In Week—Total Of Four Killed

A terrific collision at 9 a. m., Sunday of this week, on "death curve" at the bone coal plant on Bayshore highway brought death to two men and one woman and left a boy so critically injured that physicians despaired of his life. This was the most serious smashup recorded on Bayshore since a post Big Game accident snuffed out the lives of three persons a year and a half ago.

The collision brought to four the week end fatalities and set at 12 the toll for 1937, since George A. Jones, San Francisco apartment house man-

PRESS PROTESTS COUNTY BOARD MEETING CHANGE

Assemblyman Call And Sen- ator Parkman Are Guest Speakers At Publishers Meeting

The San Mateo County Press Association, at a recent dinner meeting, protested the change of date of meeting of San Mateo County Supervisors from 10 a. m. Mondays to 1 p. m. Wednesdays.

The shift in meeting dates was authorized by the supervisors board three weeks ago and is to become effective in one more week, it was understood.

Publishers, discussing the proposed change, pointed out that the 1 p. m. hour makes it impossible for San Mateo County papers to get full reports of proceedings at meetings in time for publication the same day, the three dailies all being afternoon papers and the weeklies going to press too soon after meetings to get full coverage.

In addition, one member declared that "the change is playing right into the hands of San Francisco papers," which, "wishing to exploit this county" will have first break on news from the supervisor meetings.

The opinion was also expressed that the convenience of the citizens of the county at large should be considered, rather than that of members of the Board of Supervisors alone. The latter was given by members of the board as the reason for the meeting date change.

Assemblyman Harrison W. Call and Senator Harry L. Parkman were guest speakers at the dinner meeting. They pointed out that the state was vitally interested in road development in this area and that improvements and extension have been slated for Junipero Serra boulevard, El Camino Real and Bayshore highway.

Lagomarsino Again Sentenced To Jail

Raymond Lagomarsino is once more serving time. Less than one year after winning his freedom from dreaded Alcatraz, the "Colma Bad Boy" has been sent to San Quentin.

Sentence of from one to ten years was imposed by Superior Judge A. F. Bray of Contra Costa County, after the jailbreaker pleaded for probation and was denied by Probation Officer Francis Robinson.

Lagomarsino began his crime career by robbing the Colma post office. He was granted probation. A short time later he was sent to prison for breaking his probation by stealing a car and running down and killing a newsboy on Mission street.

When Alcatraz was made the federal prison Lagomarsino was placed on "the rock." Last spring he won his freedom on a writ and only recently a high court decision was handed down upholding his contention that he should serve only one sentence even though three pieces of mail were taken.

Lagomarsino was arrested in September as a suspect in the robbery of Out of Town Club. Identification of Lagomarsino could not be made and he was freed.

MEMORIAL RITE FOR MEN KILLED ON GATE BRIDGE

School Children Will Take Part In Program To Pay Tribute To Workers Who Lost Lives In Service

A memorial service to the men who lost their lives on the Golden Gate Bridge was projected this week by the Citizens Committee for the Golden Gate Bridge Fiesta to be held in San Francisco from May 27 to June 2.

It is planned to pay tribute to the workers with services on the center of the span on Memorial Day in which children from many local schools will take part.

The men who gave their lives in helping to build the Golden Gate Bridge will not be forgotten. The Fiesta committee plans a beautiful ceremony in their memory, with religious exercises in which school children will participate.

The children, with bouquets and garlands of flowers in their hands, will go to the center of the great bridge on Memorial Day morning and cast these flowers into the waters of the Golden Gate below. It is proposed that this memorial service be perpetuated and held annually on the bridge so that the memory of the heroic bridge workers will never be forgotten.

MUCH PROGRESS MADE BY P. T. A. IN PAST YEAR

Founders Day Program At Brisbane School Is Last Function

PRESIDENT

Mrs. Ethel Jonas
She finishes current term

A founders day program held by the Brisbane P. T. A., Thursday evening of this week, ended a progressive year for that unit. The new school house was completed during the 1936-37 term. Social, study and improvement projects have been successfully undertaken.

Mrs. Ethel Jonas, president of the Brisbane unit, her committees and P. T. A. members have improved educational facilities and promoted community co-operation in school affairs.

A dinner was served at the Thursday evening Founders program. Grammar school children and the Balboa Girls Chorus entertained. All past presidents of the unit were present. Reports were made, prominent P. T. A. workers delivered addresses, and a candle lighting ceremony was held.

Air Crash Mystery Deepens As Motor Is Found

Recovery of this motor from the muddy bottom of San Francisco Bay, almost three-quarters of a mile from the scene of the crash of a Los Angeles-San Francisco transport plane, served to deepen the mystery that surrounds the fatal plunge. Wing fragments and the propeller were found near the motor by grappling hooks. Air officials hurried their grim find to Oakland, Cal., where an investigation into the tragedy that claimed eleven lives may be reopened.

IMPROVE WATER SERVICE ASKED FOR BAYSHORE

Councilmen Are Unanimous In Attitude To Secure Adequate Protection

At their next regular meeting, the Bayshore City Council will have under consideration a proposition for the procurement of a water system south of Geneva avenue within the corporate limits of the city.

That system, if acquired by the city, will, in connection with the Diamond Utility District, form a municipal water service which will not only give all Bayshore residents a sufficient water supply at a low rate, but it will also furnish the area with complete and adequate fire protection.

Councilmen have been from time to time, contacted by local citizens who have requested that their water service be improved. Complaints have been registered alleging that at certain times of the day the present water system does not supply enough pressure in pipes on the hillside south of Geneva avenue to flush toilets.

The board members are unanimous in their opinion that the city should protect itself against any and all hazards and give its citizens efficient public utility services. For fire protection, as well as "for domestic and sanitary needs," council plans to take immediate, aggressive measures in establishing an adequate municipal water system.

Coast Guard Air Base For S. F. Bay

Prompted by two recent major catastrophes, the air liner crash off Mills Field which resulted in the death of eleven persons and the Golden Gate Bridge accident netting ten dead, prompted an Oakland Democrat to introduce in Congress, late last week, a bill providing for the establishment of a coast guard air base on San Francisco Bay to provide for quick rescues.

The Atlantic Coast has six coast guard air stations while the Pacific, with one-third of the coast line of the nation, has only one.

Location of the proposed base is not yet determined, but officials expect it will be at Mills Field, where Pan American Airways now is constructing a seaplane base.

PAY BOOST

The Aluminum Company of America will add $3,000,000 annually to its pay envelopes. The boosts were announced this week and will be made in the form of 10 per cent raises for 20,000 hourly rated employees.

Vagabond Sketches by DON AMES

Because of the recent air transport crash in San Francisco, a prolonged investigation has resulted. But despite efforts to find a feasible reason for the catastrophe, it has remained a subject of debate.

Recent airplane disasters lend an indication that air traffic is hazardous. The accidents should be a warning to companies engaged in air transport service. Every precaution must be thrown up to insure the safety of passengers. The element of chance as far as the mechanical and personnel functions are concerned shall have to be eliminated from air ways.

Many wild guesses have been made regarding the cause of the San Francisco Bay disaster. A twisted mass of wreckage, however, yields little conclusive evidence.

SHORT STORY—A new middle west is being built. Recent floods have necessitated wholesale reconstruction.

TODAY'S EPIGRAM—It is human for a person to plunge blindly into an affair then sink deeper in an effort to flounder aimlessly out of it.

Federal Funds Are Sought By Warden

To seek a share of $10,000,000 in federal funds available for fire fighting facilities, County Fire Warden Bert Werder made a trip to Sacramento, Tuesday of this week.

"Since we have been left high, wide and handsome by the courthouse annex plans not making any provision for the county fire department garages, we're going to seek government funds for a fire department building," Werder said.

In Sacramento Werder will seek information from State Fire Chief Walter Coop, the warden said, to see "what we have to do to share in the program."

League To Give St. Patrick Dance

Under the auspices of the Bayshore Voters League a grand Saint Patrick's dance will be held at the League Hall on Saturday evening, March 20. The sponsoring committee anticipates that this affair shall be one of the finest of its kind ever held in Bayshore.

No effort will be spared to make this the outstanding event of the season, and every detail is being arranged to insure the enjoyment of those who attend, it has been announced.

Mel Lyons and his dance band with song hits of today will furnish music for the evening. A new table model radio will be given away as door prize, and refreshments are to be served.

ONCE REDWOOD CITY MANAGER TO COUNTY POST

E. A. Rolison Will Serve First As Budget Director, Then Become Executive NEW MANAGER

E. A. Rolison
To Return to Redwood City

Ending deliberations which have extended over several months, the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors, with dramatic suddenness, Tuesday of this week, designated Ernest A. Rolison, former Redwood City manager and now REA official, as the future county executive.

At the same time they named him budget director at a salary of $250 per month, a position he will occupy as a stepping stone to the $6000 a year manager post, which he will take over "on or before June 2," after expiration May 29 of the term of Walter T. Kellogg, incumbent.

Two resolutions, passed unanimously by the supervisors, ended suspense which has developed around the managerial choice.

Board Chairman Hugh H. Smith, without saying a word, handed County Clerk Elmore B. Hinman the resolutions carrying out the board's decision, reached at a caucus meeting prior to the public session, Tuesday of this week Supervisor Fred Beer moved adoption of the resolution declaring the board's intention to designate Rolison executive. With Supervisor James S. James seconding, the motion passed unanimously.

Immediately the next resolution was placed before the board. This measure, filling the third position on the temporary budget commission created February 15, passed unanimously, with Supervisor John Poole introducing the resolution and Supervisor James giving the second. Other members of the commission will be Supervisor James, chairman of the board's finance committee, and Controller Edward M. Stack.

PROBE RENEWED IN GIANT AIRWAY LINER ACCIDENT

Missing Motor Of Plane Is Found And Examination Shows Broken Gear

C. E. Johnson, division superintendent of United Air Lines, said, early this week, that mechanical failure might have caused the air crash at Mills Field which claimed the lives of eleven persons.

After examining the right motor of the plane which was recovered from bay waters, Johnson reported the reduction gear of the motor was broken in two places. This may have been caused by a breakdown in the gears, or by vibration of a broken propeller, aviation experts said.

INQUIRY RENEWAL SET

Belief that the crash of a United Airline plane, on February 9, was due to a mechanical failure, was strengthened following recovery of the right motor of the giant Douglas airliner, which was missing when the plane wreckage was found.

The motor was brought up, late Sunday of this week, by grappling hooks nearly a mile northwest of the spot where the plane crashed. Because the ship was southbound at the time of the accident, it was believed that the motor may have been torn loose from the plane when it was turning to make a landing.

Searchers reported also that they found a landing wheel which had been missing. Part of the missing right wing was found Monday afternoon near the spot where the motor was located.

MOTOR SEALED

The motor was taken to Oakland where, after it was cleaned of mud and silt, it was sealed and will be held for an official examination later.

Department of Commerce officials prepared to reopen their investigation into the disaster. A previous inquiry was postponed with the an-

ASSERT YOUTHS ROB MAN AFTER AUTO ACCIDENT

Officers Take Culprits Into Custody—During Quiz One Slips Loot Into Coat Pocket Of Officer

Having assertedly confessed robbing a man of $90 following a smash-up on Hillside boulevard, Sunday evening of this week, then later trying to hide the loot in the pocket of a policeman's coat, two youthful San Franciscans were lodged in county jail cells at Redwood City, Monday of this week.

The pair, Angelo Accamo, 20, painter, and George Polk, 17, plumber, were arrested by Patrolman Otto Schramm and Constable George Krehl.

The arrest followed accusations of Giuseppe Martini, 45, Colma, that the youths had held him down and extracted $90 from his wallet when he took the purse out to show them his operator card. Martini, Schramm said, had smashed into the youths'

Recommends County Buy Park Land

Another link may be added to the San Mateo County chain of parks and public beaches. The county planning commission recommended, at a regular meeting late last week, that the Board of Supervisors purchase a 20 acre site on Bay road between Marsh and Willow roads, for a neighborhood recreational area for the North Fair Oaks district. The property is part of the Flood estate.

The planners requested the supervisors to get officially behind the five point alternate rapid transit plan for speeding peninsula commuter service in San Francisco, and to continue negotiations with the Market Street Railway Company for improved street car facilities.

Ballyhoo Sending Bomber Same Way Maxie Baer Went

JOE LOUIS' purses have totaled more than $700,000 since he became a professional prize fighter thirty months ago. He was accompanied to his corner on the night he fought Bob Pastor by eleven managers, trainers, promoters, seconds and less easily identified parties. Since all of them probably like to eat and wear diamonds, a considerable portion of his rewards must have been shared with them. Yet, because they in turn have cut in on allied ventures, he must be worth at least $200,000 today.

Even in this land of surprises there scarcely is any precedent for the amazing triumph of this giant. There may, though, be a very good and modern precedent for what has been happening to the youngster recently. I refer to the sad case of Max Baer.

Both Max and Joe arrived quickly. They were fortunate in their early connections and did not have to come up the hard way as did Jack Dempsey.

Each of them was well possessed of the purely physical virtues which make for a great fighter. Probably Baer was the better built and the better able to sustain a punch, but each of them owned amazing hitting ability. This latter quality, as displayed in the matches that were made for them, covered up inherent defects. Indeed it caused the undiscerning to proclaim them as owning—through some God-given right—talent that can only come by long and faithful practice.

Baer, who should have been a champion for ten years, went first and quickest. He read the papers and otherwise amused himself. Thought that a hungry father must tremble at headlines which screamed that the odds should be 1,000 to 1 and that stretcher-bearers should sit close to the ringside. Jim Braddock, not a great fighter then or now but an earnest man who had worked hard for his chance, utterly discredited Baer.

Much the same thing now is happening to Louis. He was not a good boxer when he first appeared against Carnera less than two years ago. But he could punch hard and fast and possessed superb poise when things were going well.

Newspapers and radios built up a myth about him that could have endured almost as long as the twin gags about George Washington's cherry tree and Calvin Collidge's silent wisdom. Undoubtedly various of the lambs that were being led into the ring were rendered even more timid by the press advices that they were about to be slaughtered unmercifully.

All the while Joe read the sports pages and the comic sheets and otherwise amused himself. When preparing for a fight he slept, ate and popped over as woful a set of sparring partners as ever appeared for the ancient and elegant purpose of getting popped over. In the ring against Sharkeys, Ketzlaffs and Brescias he learned even less. Perhaps confidence was built high in him, but confidence means little without such a backing as Joe never strove to attain.

Even the shellacking received from Schmeling, a second-rater as great heavyweights go, taught no lesson. Nor could repeated warnings convince Joe's camp followers of the altered temper of disillusioned cash customers. Business went on as usual, although the crowd reaction was far from being as good as of yore. Meanwhile, the inevitable kept on getting closer.

The Louis who scrambled with Bob Pastor was a sorely puzzled boy. The one set of rules with which he was familiar were being discarded as on the Schmeling night. Thirty months of headlining and more than $700,000 in purses had given him nothing with which to meet new conditions.

He has, perhaps, picked up a few cute little punches for which a more discerning referee would have penalized him. Otherwise he has not advanced. Indeed has become more sluggish, seems definitely to have gone back.

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:

ANOTHER attempt will be made to straighten the tangled affairs of the Brooklyn baseball club before the Dodgers start spring training. It is possible that this meeting may either result in that long hoped-for sale or in a shift in stock control.

Chick Meehan, the coach who put N. Y. U. and Manhattan in the front football ranks, is winter vacationing in Miami. Pennsylvania's racing commissioners will receive annual salaries of $10,000 each, tops for such jobs, if the sport becomes legal in that state. Gossips insist that if any local college court stars failed in their mid-year exams it was because the boys were playing semi-pro basketball in Yonkers and outlying Westchester spots when they should have been studying.

When former Boxing Commissioner Jim Farley quits being Postmaster General the best bet is that he will hook up with a famous insurance company. That Garden tip probably got out because Jim is planning a few Florida days as the guest of Stanton Griffiths, Wall Street and movie notable, who also heads the Garden board of directors. Casey Stengel now is in Texas looking over some oil property which may soon make him as rich in money as he already is in friends. Garry Schmeckel, former basketball star and layer of odds on met courses, is in a new business. He runs a riot of a place in Miami Beach called the Circus. Either Prosecutor Dewey or the G-Men might perform a much needed service for a long suffering public by investigating the New York prize fight situation.

Several of the best fights of recent weeks have been pick-up affairs at the very social Hialeah racetrack. A prominent trainer was the main performer in one of them and a celebrated jockey starred in another.

Eddie Burke, who manages Havre De Grace and the new du Pont track at Wilmington, once was president of the Metropolitan association. Back in 1905 the Mets were celebrated as the nation's strongest organization of bookmakers.

The Whitneys are as clever as ever at picking names for their horses. Take Septime, now in Florida with the Greentree division. Septime's mammy is Parry and Septime also is the seventh, or parry, position in fencing.

Italians Now Boss Lightweight Class

The lightweight class which in the past has been dominated by Irish, Jews, negroes and other racial strains now is strongest in Italians. For instance there are Champion Lou Ambers (Luigi D'Ambrasio), Tony Canzoneri, Enrico Venturi, Aldo Spoldi and Phil Baker (Philip Matra). Some of the sharpest of bettors will look for a price on Brooklyn when the future books come out for the Kentucky Derby.

This Colonel Bradley colt was a late-season development as a youngster. Cleveland and Chicago have been so impressed by the prospective success of the American Bowling Congress which will be held in New York in the spring that they are bidding hot for the 1938 tournament.

Arthur Lumley, dean of New York boxing writers, is very ill in his Brooklyn home. He is more than eighty years old. Dave Driscoll, former and very able business manager of the Dodgers, is hoping to connect again with some International league club. Harry Voller, who came all the way from Florida for the Pastor-Louis fight, has joined the list of those who believe the New York boy some day will be heavyweight champion.

A Braddock-Louis fight in Chicago probably would not draw any more than $300,000 in spite of interested ballyhoo to the contrary. Incidentally Braddock is one fighter Louis can knock out and the job could be done quickly. It's a tough thing for a guy who bet on Jim against Baer to say but it's true. Also there's plenty of McCoy in the statement that John Henry Lewis, the colored light-heavyweight champion, would be no worse than even money if Joe ever decided to quit drawing the color line against him.

Johnny Moir, whose brilliant work at forward has helped Notre Dame to defeat the No. 1 and No. 2 Big Ten basketball teams in succession, holds every scoring record in his school's history except one. That's Ed Krause's three year mark of 547 points. In a season and a half Moir has scored 435 points.

If he continues to average 17 points a game he has for the last five games he will have a new record before the end of his second season. Joe Cronin is getting a share of the $250,000 purchase price his father-in-law, Clark Griffith, got for him from Boston at the rate of ten cents a hole on a Florida golf course. Visiting ball teams at Comiskey park will have a new clubhouse at their disposal this season. Plans for the new quarters are being drawn up and President J. Louis Comiskey promises it will be the best in the major leagues. The Sox will continue to occupy their present rooms, which were built when the park was enlarged.

Real Story of Flood Disaster Is Found Behind the Headlines

Humor, Pathos, Heroism, Suffering Are All Part of Central Valley Saga.

By WILLIAM C. UTLEY

STATISTICS about the great flood, the havoc it has wreaked and the misery which lies in its wake are staggering in themselves, merely as statistics. But they do not begin to tell the real story of what it is like to be actually face to face with disaster.

More than a million homeless! Four or five hundred dead—really more than that, it is certain! Hundreds of millions of dollars damage! Great cities threatened with disease! Flood and drinking water running short!

Awe-inspiring, indeed, are these headlines. But they are too general

But WSM in Nashville cancelled all programs, at a great loss in revenue, to carry the Louisville bulletins. Yet WSM is WHAS' chief competitor.

Heroism was not confined to the saving of human life. Rescue crews often risked their own lives to save dogs, cats and other animals who were floating on debris. One man in a rowboat lost his oars in rescuing a dog from a floating crate. A little while later, the dog, apparently disgusted with an oarsman who couldn't hang onto his oars, leaped out of the boat and swam ashore.

Some animals did not fare so well. Those in the Cincinnati zoo were starving until the Detroit zoological park sent two tons of horse meat. All other meat had to be reserved for human beings.

Humanity is for the most part generous at heart. When the Red Cross made it known that $10,000,000 was needed at once, the response was quick and sympathetic. Even those who were caught in the catastrophe wanted to help. One young mother, poorly clothed, said in a shelter house at Sharpsburg, Pa., "I wish I had something to give those poor people. I know what it's like. Last year the nice dining room furniture I got for a wedding gift got smashed to bits. Just little pieces it was when I went home."

They're Not All Generous. One little girl, obviously from an impoverished family, stopped at a relief station and laid a freshly-baked loaf of home-made bread on the counter. "Mama sent it," she to do justice to the spectacle. The way to understand what they really meant is to have been in the flood zone, or in the adjacent areas where the refugees have been rushed to safety. There in the countless individual cases which may be seen first-hand are stories of pathos, suffering, humor, selfishness, generosity and heroism that no statistics could measure.

Heroism? Everybody was a hero down there. Heroes were a nickel apiece, and most of them are nameless.

Policeman Saves 300. They are of many kinds. Picking a few out of the hat:

There is the parachute jumper who was determined to rush badly needed medical serums, food and lamps to Paducah, Ky., one of the cities hardest hit. Leaving Louisville he planned to drop the food if possible where the marooned might reach it, then to carry the serum down by parachute. He got it there.

Nobody remembers who the Louisville policeman was who kept 300 women and children marooned in a school from going hungry. He swam three-quarters of a mile through ice-cold waters to seek assistance. At the end of his swim he had to break into a store, climb up some shelves and struggle with a water-logged telephone.

Rescuers rowed like fury to remove three expectant mothers who were marooned in the same place. Their batting average was only .667, for only two of the women reached the hospital in time. The third gave birth to a son in a rowboat tossing on the angry waves.

Throughout the emergency period the short wave radio operators were heroes. When all other means of communication failed they often "came through." In one instance they were credited with saving the lives of 400 in a single spot. The victims were marooned on the second floor of a California (Ohio) schoolhouse. Police got reports via short wave that water was pushing up the floor. After hours of struggle they succeeded in removing the trapped persons.

Rescue Animals, Too.

Regular commercial broadcasting stations were heroes, too. WHAS and WAVE in Louisville did noble work in carrying bulletins and instructions to victims and rescue crews. When these two stations were forced off the air by plant failures due to the flood, other stations carried their bulletins, of great importance to coast guard boats, police squads and national guard units—when these bulletins did not interfere with commercially sponsored broadcasts.

anything!" She asked a man at her elbow, "I think it's fun, don't you?" He left her without answering out loud.

Human nature being what it is, some persons in the flood area parade their wealth before the eyes of envying neighbors. But wealth is no longer measured by money, it's measured by boots. Those that have them love to turn them so that the yellow linings will be noticeable for blocks. Those who haven't say the darn things are too hot and heavy anyway.

Some persons become equal to the occasion in unusual ways. Take, for instance, Ida Webb and Virgil O. Kagle, each twenty, of West Hickman, Ky. Rescued from their flooded homes in the Kentucky lowlands, they lost no time in marrying as soon as they reached dry ground in Union City, Tenn. Immediately after the ceremony they joined other sufferers in a refugee camp.

Parrot Speaks His Mind.

Flood victims were the favored guests of their more fortunate brethren. Travelers disembarking from first class accommodations on trains arriving at the Indianapolis terminal from the flood area were forced to carry their own bags. "Red caps" fought to carry the baggage of refugees in the coaches, even though they knew there was hardly a chance for a tip. Refugees had precious little baggage to carry, however.

The type of hand packages being carried by the fleeing hordes was indicated by the piles of belongings found between the rows of some 6,000 cots in the Louisville armory, where refugees had spent the night. Mixed in with a pile of sodden blankets were a broken doll, a kitchen pan and a parrot in a badly bent cage speaking slightly warped language. Refugees were wearily searching for their own belongings while trucks waited outside to carry them to places of greater safety.

You can't think of everything in an emergency like flood. Red Cross workers who were caring for refugees brought to Columbus from Portsmouth believed they had remembered everything necessary. Then it was discovered that they said. Another little girl, Mary Lynn Eisner, nine, of Cassville, Wis., won the $10 bank night prize in the theater there. She would have liked a new doll or two, but she sent the whole ten to the Red Cross disaster relief fund.

Some flood victims were not so generous or heroic. In Lawrenceburg, Ind., three tiny babies were found in a deserted house. They were cared for at an emergency hospital while authorities searched for their parents. In Cincinnati a "flapper" in gay orange ski trousers and a leather jacket was heard to say, "I wouldn't have missed it for had neglected to provide diapers for babies. A rush call to merchants produced 600.

There were other changes in the order of commerce. One building had been a laundry, with many trucks operating from it day by day. Now it is a repair shop for outboard motors, with the tiny craft entering the building through the back door.

There is humor here, too, for even a flood is not without its ironies and its paradoxes. For instance, one of the chief desires of most refugees from the high water is a bath. On the other hand, there is the case of the sharecropper who was being cared for in a Poplar Bluff, Mo., camp, where the doctor in charge had ordered all 800 refugees to take a bath. "Say," the sharecropper protested, "this thing's gettin' serious."

Fat Lady Gets a Lift.

In the jail at Parkersburg, W. Va., 63 prisoners didn't mind the flood very much. They were eating fancy "vittles" they couldn't even call by name, supplied by the city's foremost hotel.

In Cincinnati, rescue crews heard that a woman had been marooned, and set out to get her. They had to chop away part of her house to take her out; she weighed 400 pounds. In Louisville a rescue party took a woman from a flooded house and rowed her three blocks to safety. Then she wanted to be rowed back. She had left two dollars in the home, she said. The boatmen were gentle, but firm. "Not even for two bucks," they said.

Sights to be seen from the rescue boats were not all dismal. There was the truck mired in a ditch beside a flooded highway near Cairo. It was loaded with wax feminine figures clothed in filmy lingerie. A sign hung on one of the models read: "For sale—cheap." Just visible above 20 feet of water in Cincinnati's Third street was the sign, a little weather beaten: "This lot for sale or lease. No interruption from high water."

But perhaps the supreme irony was uncovered by Red Cross relief workers when they opened a package some "charitable" person had consigned to the flood sufferers. It contained six swimming suits.

Santa Cruz Bans Bank Nights

Santa Cruz.—Bingo games and theater bank nights will be forbidden in this city as part of a drive against gambling. Slot and pin ball machines have also been banned.

University Sex Course Urged

Berkeley.—Members of the University of California Welfare Committee said they will present a petition to Dr. Robert T. Legge, university hospital director, urging a course in sex hygiene.

$50,000 Bonds Recovered From Bay

Burlingame.—County Coroner William Crosby turned over to a San Francisco bond house $50,000 in negotiable bonds recovered from the United Air liner that dived into the bay near here with loss of eleven lives.

Farthest West P. O. Closes

Eureka.—The most westerly branch postoffice in the continental United States has been closed because of lack of business. The office was at Capetown in Humboldt County near here and had been in operation for sixty years.

'Sit-Down' Strike In Theater

San Jose.—Ired because he failed to win a bank night prize, Robert Harmon, salesman, declared a one-man sit-down strike in a local theater. He was paying his daily theater admission and having his meals sent in, vowing that he would stay until given a prize. "I have enough money to stay here till March," Harmon said.

Buy Doubtful Oil Rights

Los Angeles.—California investors are spending $5,000,000 a year for oil rights in other states, and much of the land is of doubtful value. This was asserted by Thomas J. Finnerty of the California Division of Real Estate, who said his office has evidence of tracts which cost promoters from 5 cents to $2 an acre being sold at $80 to $300.

Fruit Sent to Flood Victims

San Jose.—A carload of Santa Clara County fruit and vegetables, valued at $3000, has been shipped East to the stricken flood district as the gift of the local members of the Cannery League of California. The contribution is in addition to $16,000 already sent from San Jose and vicinity for relief.

Cards Urged for Young Drinkers

Pasadena.—Issuance of identification cards to prevent sales of liquor to minors is advocated by Mrs. Eva C. Wheeler, State president of the W. C. T. U. The cards would be issued only to "near-minors", persons 21 to 28 years of age, each card containing a photograph of its owner. The card, it was recommended, would be revoked should the person become involved in a traffic accident while drinking.

State Employee Killed In Crash

Lodi.—Miss Mary McGillicuddy, 29, secretary to the State director of agriculture at Sacramento, was fatally injured when her car collided with another machine near here. C. W. Duckworth, assistant director of the State department of agriculture, who was riding with Miss McGillicuddy, suffered a sprained back and several cuts.

Paroles Urged as Prison Reform

Berkeley.—The University of California bureau of public administration announced that after a study of the State penal system it recommends adequate parole and probation systems to relieve California's crowded prisons. The recommendations were made in the face of criticisms which have been directed against the parole system and agitation for construction of more prisons to relieve congestion.

Mrs. Terry, Historic Figure, Dies

Stockton.—The turbulent life of Sarah Althea Hill Terry, San Francisco's most notorious siren 50 years ago, was ended with her death in the State Hospital for the Insane here, where she lived for 46 years. Nearly 90 when she died, Mrs. Terry's mind broke in 1891, after she had seen her husband, Judge David Terry, shot down by a bodyguard of his enemy, Justice Stephen J. Field, the aftermath of a feud based on Judge Field's invalidation of an alleged marriage contract involving Mrs. Terry and Senator William Sharon.

Man Arraigned In Train Wreck

Selma.—Frank K. Ritchie, manager of the Sunflower Packing Company plant at Porterville, was arraigned on two felony counts of manslaughter in court here as an aftermath of the wreck of the Southern Pacific Owl, in which two trainmen were killed. A locomotive, tender and seven cars were derailed after striking Ritchie's automobile, stalled in a switch in front of the Southern Pacific station here.

BILLY MINK TRAILS HIS BREAKFAST

BILLY MINK had overslept. This was very unusual for Billy. Usually he was watching for the farmer to bring him his breakfast. But this morning Billy had overslept. He knew it the minute his eyes opened. Right away he scrambled out to see what had been left him for breakfast. He found nothing. He blinked two or three times, for he had become so used to finding his breakfast right there at the edge of the woodpile that he couldn't believe there was none there for him that morning. But there wasn't a thing. There wasn't even the tiniest scrap. Billy began to wonder if someone had stolen his breakfast while he slept.

Right away he put his nose to the ground and began to run about this way and that way. He was trying to find out if something had been put there and then taken away. He knew that if anything had been there he would be able to smell it, for he has a very wonderful little nose.

Presently a very delicious smell tickled that wonderful little nose. That is, it was a very delicious smell to Billy. It wouldn't have been delicious to you. You would have called it a very bad smell. It was the smell of fish, and not fresh fish at that.

Billy began to gallop along with his nose to the ground following that smell. He didn't care who saw him. You see, he had become so at home in that farmyard that he felt quite safe there. He and the farmer had become very good friends. There was no dog to fear, and Billy wasn't afraid of the cat. He had just one thought in mind, and that was to find out what had become of that fish. He was sure it had been meant for him. Whoever had taken it away had dragged it along the ground, so it was easy for Billy to follow the smell.

He was trailing his breakfast in just the same way he had followed the rats in the barn. Straight across the barnyard the trail led and over to the shed at the back of the house. There, just in front of a hole under the floor of the shed, Billy found the fish. His eyes sparkled and he wasted no time. He began to eat that fish at once. He didn't stop to wonder who had dragged it there, he didn't care. It was his fish, and he intended to make sure of it.

When he had finished that last scrap Billy felt so stuffed that he didn't want to move any more than he had to. He looked over to the woodpile and then he looked at the hole under the shed. The woodpile was too far away. He felt sure that he would find a nice, comfortable, dark place under that shed. Without hesitating a second he disappeared through the hole.

MOTHER'S COOK BOOK

SHRIMPS AND OYSTERS

IF THERE is any salad that appeals with a greater thrill to the eye and taste than the pink, tender and meaty shrimps served in a nest of crisp lettuce, there is something still worth looking forward to in the culinary line.

Served as Madame Begue in New Orleans serves them with a simple french salad dressing with a dash of worcestershire sauce, it is a salad of one's dreams. With a platter of french bread, it is a meal.

Shrimps in a cocktail are always appetizing; dressed with a dash of horseradish and chili sauce with a squeeze of lemon, they make the best of beginnings to a meal.

Where shrimps may be bought fresh, they are of course at their best. Drop them into boiling water and cook them until they turn pink, then remove the shells. In most fish markets they may be bought already cooked, and kept well chilled for the daily markets. Here is another way of serving them that is worth the effort:

Baked Shrimp.

Butter a deep dish and put in a layer of baking powder biscuit dough, on this place a layer of shrimp, dot with bits of butter, pepper, salt and cover with another layer of the dough. Add another layer of the shrimp and cover the top with small biscuits. Bake in a hot oven for forty-five minutes and serve very hot.

Oyster Dressing.

This is good in any fowl or with roast pork: Take a quart of bread crumbs, cover with cold water and soak. Drain and squeeze dry, add two well beaten eggs, salt and pepper, one-fourth of a cupful of melted butter and a cup of drained oysters; add a dash of sage if liked or a bit of onion.

THE PROPER SHARE

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

MAN is a mixture of all things: No sorrow but some sweetness brings.

No pleasure but a little pain. No loss but something will remain. Unthinkingly we wonder why There is some cloud in ev'ry sky. Why ev'ry heart some hurt has known, And why especially our own.

And yet we know life has all these, Its discords and its harmonies, Its sunlit noon yet misty morn, Its prizes won, its burdens borne. And would you have yourself the best,

Put all the burdens on the rest, Let others bear the load each day, Yourself exempted all the way?

I find this comfort in my woe, That life was never ordered so, That I should always find it sweet, While others tread a darkened street.

Since there is sorrow on this earth, God, give me something more than mirth, Since there are burdens men must bear, God, give my heart its proper share.

THE LANGUAGE OF YOUR HAND

By Leicester K. Davis

The Impulsively Affectionate Thumb

LOVE is a powerful impulse, but one which should be properly controlled. However, just as there are natures sadly incapable of affectionate expression, so there are others in which an overmastering desire for love may prove to be a serious defect in temperament.

Do not be too hasty in forming your conclusions in matters which concern the "love life" of the individual whose hand you analyze. Indications of unstable affection are often but tendencies which may be under firm control.

The Thumb of Impulsive Affection.

Before analyzing that portion of the thumb which gives us a real clue to the affections, consider other influencing elements—the form and flexibility of the thumb as a whole, as well as its position on the hand.

Excessive suppleness marks the thumb of an impulsively affectionate nature. Its shape is usually not able by a combination of smoothness, fullness and grace. The first, or nail, joint may be quite tapered at the sides but is invariably inclined to over-fullness on the underside portion opposite the nail. With a thumb of this type the third, or palm, joint is always over-fleshed, assuming a pillowed appearance when the thumb is pressed closely into the palm. While extended, the thumb stands almost at right angles to the palm.

Without other compensating influences within the hand, a thumb of this kind is sure to indicate a love nature inclined toward extravagance.

Why Does a Millionaire Want To Make Another Million?

WHEN a person says he is going to make a certain sum of money, then settle down and enjoy life, he is planning something that he is very unlikely to ever carry out. Psychologists say that desire for wealth is based on feelings of insecurity and inadequacy that reside in the subconscious mind, due to early impressions and experiences in life. The first million dollars is achieved, but the same subconscious urges prod him on after the second million, then the third. Only sitting down and analyzing our motives will ever make us content with what we gain—otherwise we keep striving, striving for something that we can never achieve; that thing called peace of mind and social adequacy.

Worthy of Your Pride!

MOTHER, between you and me Sis is getting to be a little show-off. Last night when Dick called, there she sat, big as life, right in the middle of things chirping about the new dress you made her: how you used a remnant left over from one of your dresses, and got it finished in one afternoon—she even had Dick feel the material.

Well, Elsie, you can't blame the child's appreciating herself in a new dress. How about ourselves? Didn't you say your jumper was the talk of the Tennis Club meeting yesterday? And haven't I been spending more time before the mirror since I made my new "Stylish Stout" model? I actually feel like a new person in it—imagine me being vain at my age!

Flatters Stout Figure.

Oh, Mother, you're not vain and you're as young as any of us. You just were lucky to find a particularly flattering style for your figure. That soft jabot makes you look lovely and the whole thing is so slenderizing. But only an expert like you could make such a dress.

It isn't being expert, Elsie, it is choosing a pattern that is deftly designed and giving full step-by-step instructions on how to proceed.

Several Blouses.

I'm going to make another blouse for my jumper soon, Mother. I always admired that white pique shirt of Dick's, so I think I'll try it for my blouse, since the pattern is a lot like a man's shirt in design.

It sounds good to hear you interested in making something for yourself. Maybe you girls will turn your Bid-or-Bi Club into a Sew-Your-Own before long.

You can never tell, Mother, you never can tell!

The Patterns.

Pattern 1229 comes in sizes 14 to 20; 32 to 42 bust. Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards of 39-inch material for the jumper and 1 1/2 yards for the blouse. Pattern 1847 is available in sizes 36 to 52. Size 38 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39-inch material.

Pattern 1882 is designed for sizes 2 to 10 years. Size 4 years requires 1 1/2 yards of 39-inch material.

DISCOVERED Way to Relieve Coughs QUICKLY

IT'S BY relieving both the irritated tissues of the throat and bronchial tubes. One set of ingredients in FOLEY'S HONEY & TAR quickly relieves tickling, hacking, coughing; it coats and soothes irritated throat linings to keep you from coughing. Another set actually enters the blood, reaches the affected bronchial tubes, loosens phlegm, helps break up cough and speeds recovery. Check a cough due to a cold before it gets worse, before others catch it. Check it with FOLEY'S HONEY & TAR. It gives quick relief and speed-up recovery.

WOMEN WHO HOLD THEIR MEN NEVER LET THEM KNOW

NO matter how much your back aches and your nerves scream, your husband, because he is only a man, can never understand why you are so hard to live with one week in every month.

Too often the honeymoon express is wrecked by the nagging tongue of a three-quarter wife. The wise woman never lets her husband know by outward sign that she is a victim of periodic pain.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

Household Questions

Sometimes ink stains can be removed from the hands by rubbing them with the inside of a banana peel.

Carrots can be made crisp before cooking by scraping and leaving in cold water for half an hour.

You can produce your own sour milk for use in sour-milk recipes by simply adding a teaspoon of vinegar to each cup of fresh sweet milk.

If the roof should leak and stain your ceiling, cover the stain with block magnesia. Rub the block over the spot until the stain is covered, then smooth over with the tips of your fingers. It works like magic.

Jane Cowl In "First Lady" At Curran

One Of Greatest Comedy Successes Will Be Staged At Popular San Francisco Play House

When Jane Cowl brings her sparkling comedy success, "First Lady," to the Curran Theater in San Francisco on Monday, March 1, with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday, we shall have an opportunity of judging for ourselves whether this smart expose of Washington hostesses and social leaders, by Katharine Dayton and George S. Kaufman, lives up to all the fine things said of it during its last season run at the Music Box Theater in New York.

Of the merits of "First Lady" and Jane Cowl's performance, we have it on the authority of Gilbert Gabriel of the New York American that "First Lady" is a bright business and an unholy joy. Whatever party you belong to, here's your ideal theater party. While John Mason Brown, critic of the New York Evening Post, says that "First Lady" is an entertainment which gives one every excuse for cheering. It is one of the most convincing comedies of the season. To which Robert Garland, reviewer for the New York World-Telegram, adds "First Lady" contains some of the most brilliant topical dialogue ever spoken on the American stage.

John Anderson of the New York Journal claims that this is "the happiest and light-heartedest play the season has brought forth."

Of the play, the authors and the star, Richard Lockridge of the New York Sun contributes these paragraphs: "In 'First Lady,' Katharine Dayton and George S. Kaufman have contrived a cheerfully merciless comedy about life among the hostesses of Washington. With the utmost good humor, and the sharpest of claws, half-hidden in the quickest of paws, they dab, cat-like, at things and people, thus providing entertainment for man and sadist. It crackles the mind in smiles."

"First Lady" was produced by Sam H. Harris.

The cast supporting Miss Cowl includes Ann Mason, Hunter Gardner, Oswald Yorke, Ethel Wilson, Thomas Findlay, Florenz Ames, Helen Brooks, Judson Laire, Diantha Pattison, King Calder, James Seeley, Carrie Reynolds, Paula McLean, Marjorie Crossland and others.

POINT SAN PEDRO ROCKAWAY BEACH

A tree, 90 feet tall, blew down in the garden of Dr. Le Fevre last week, giving the doctor plenty of work over the holiday chopping it up for his fireplace. Luckily, it fell on unoccupied ground and did no damage. A large limb of a neighboring tree broke off in the gale and tumbled into the garden of Mrs. Becky Johnson, narrowly escaping her fence and falling straight along the terrace without dislodging so much as a single rock.

Mayor Jack Lawson of Bayshore City, was a visitor at the Beeler home, Monday of this week. Mrs. Fenlon and her son stopped by and had a chat with Mrs. Beeler.

Little John Peter Dempsey had a birthday cake with one candle, last Sunday, and although he was not allowed to eat any of the cake, Jackie showed considerable interest in the bright candle flame. The cake was a gift from his godmother, Mrs. Dolores Montara of San Francisco.

The sea was unusually smooth and calm over the week end, so that all the local fishing boats were out to catch any patriotic fish that had ventured too near shore to celebrate Washington's Birthday. No record catches were reported, but all who fished had a good day and fair luck.

Walter Bliss and wife of San Francisco paid a short visit to Pedro, on Monday of this week, to enjoy the exhilarating air and warm sunshine, as well as the scenery.

Mrs. Peter Haugaard of Shelter Cove, her mother, Mrs. Small, of Glen Ellen, and little Claudia paid calls to friends on the Pedro hill, Sunday afternoon.

Pat Dempsey is building artistic bird houses in his spare time. He and Mrs. Dempsey are watching anxiously for birds to fly in and make themselves at home.

The Hector Martins spent the holidays at Pedro. They plan to rebuild and remodel their home here and make it their permanent residence. Mrs. Martin's cousin, Mrs. Kearns, and her family of four children, have given up their Pedro cottage and moved to town.

Dr. Shawk is starting a plan for two school zone signs at Rockaway, one at the Whitehouse tavern corner and the other at the road leading to the Rockaway public school.

Jim Trogila enjoyed a three day holiday trip into the Lake County for the week end, as a rest and relaxation after many weeks of strenuous work.

Mrs. Pauline Bailey left Rockaway beach, Friday of last week, to rejoin her husband, Edgar, at San Diego. She drove down with Mrs. Schleuter and Bob, who are taking a trip to Boulder Dam. Mrs. William Bailey, who has been ill for several weeks, is now better and back at the store.

Mrs. Wilsey, of Oakland, spent a recent week end at Rockaway with her sister, Mrs. Bicknell.

Short-lengths: An ornamental fence going up on the Beeler porch; a coat of white paint on Mrs. Daisy Waldorf's house; a brand new overcoat on a handsome young man who lives on the hill, and a new frock for the wife: Mrs. Bryant transplanting rosebushes; the American flag floating in the breeze from the flag pole in the Olmo garden on Washington's Birthday.

Assemblyman Call Addresses Students

Students of Jefferson Union High School were addressed by Assemblyman Harrison Call at a special assembly, Friday of last week. Mr. Call, a dynamic speaker, spoke of George Washington, his life and activities.

The assemblyman traced the life of the father of our country and pointed out a paramount feature of Washington's character, "fixity of purpose." Mr. Call also outlined the growth of our government.

Lure Of Jungle Still Calls Her

Mrs. Martin Johnson

Mrs. Martin Johnson, widow of the famed explorer, is pictured in a Los Angeles hospital, where she has been convalescing since she was injured and her husband killed in a plane crash near San Fernando. Mrs. Johnson said she planned to return to the jungle and continue exploring as she did for 27 years with her distinguished husband. Belgian Congo will be her next "hunting ground," she said.

ager, had been fatally injured late Saturday in Burlingame.

SECOND IN WEEK

The Sunday crash was the second on "death curve" in a week.

Henry Nelson, 50; his sister in law, Mrs. Josephine Nelson, 47, and Roy L. Warner, all San Franciscans, were the dead.

Mrs. Nelson and Warner were killed instantly when the machine driven by Mrs. Nelson's husband, H. F. Nelson, a salesman, was smashed into by that of Warner.

CARS DEMOLISHED

Highway Patrolman Otto Schramm and William Riley said that Warner failed to negotiate the curve by the boneyard. Nelson, who escaped almost unscathed, said that he was driving in the slow lane when he saw the machine driven by Warner hurtling toward him. In attempting to turn inside Warner's car, Nelson said his machine was struck nearly broadside by the speeding automobile. Both cars were demolished.

Henry Nelson lived an hour and a half after the accident, dying at Mission Emergency Hospital.

H. F. Nelson, following the crash, rushed his two injured sons to Alemany Hospital. Later John Nelson, 14, was transferred to Franklin Hospital, where physicians held little hope for his recovery.

Another victim of the crash was the Nelson's little pet fox terrier, killed instantly. The Nelson family was on its way to Santa Cruz for the day when tragedy intervened.

Walter Goodnight, 20, 601 Cooley avenue, East Palo Alto, was arrested for reckless driving and having an overcrowded driver's compartment after a three-car collision in which seven were hurt, late Saturday night of last week on El Camino Real opposite the Spring Valley water works at the Belmont-San Carlos city limits.

THREE IN CAR HURT

Three persons riding with Goodnight were injured. They were Leota Sachs, 18; Frances Cotrell, 18, and Charles Henderson, 21, all of San Mateo. All cut and bruised, they were given first aid at Community Hospital, then released.

Preparations Made For Humane Week

Members of humane societies throughout the United States are preparing for the observance of be kind to animals week, April 11 to 17, 1937, with humane Sunday on April 11. Committees have been named in each city, and the campaign is well under way to focus public attention upon humane work during that time.

The movement to observe one week each year as be kind to animals week is fostered by the American Humane Association, the national federation of humane societies, at Albany, New York, and the association is making unusual efforts to have the celebration universal this year.

The committee for Northern California is composed of nineteen members, each of whom is directing the work in his locality. All are anxious to communicate with any one willing to help in the work.

PROBE RENEWED IN GIANT AIRWAY LINER ACCIDENT

Missing Motor Of Plane Is Found And Examination Shows Broken Gear

nouncement that it would be resumed as soon as the missing motor, believed to be a vital part of the evidence, was recovered.

MAY HAVE TORN OUT

A coroner's inquest previously concluded that the 11 victims, five of whose bodies still are missing, died as a result of drowning rather than from injuries suffered as a direct result of the crash.

The propeller was not on the motor when the engine was retrieved from the mud. This indicated, experts said, that the propeller may have fallen off first, and the motor, freed from driving the propeller blades, had torn itself from its moorings.

Airmen theorized that although the airplane was capable of flying with one motor, the loss of a motor at such a low altitude as the ship was coming in to land, might have caused the plane to drop suddenly. Perhaps, they said, the drop was just sufficient to hook the left wing into the water, and somersault the ship over on its back.

SEARCH TO CONTINUE

Company officials said that the search for the propeller would be continued, "because this additional evidence is important to the Bureau of Air Commerce and air line executives in reconstructing the accident."

It is believed location of the propeller blades will be very difficult, in view of the long search required to find the bulky motor.

Prior to recovery of the engine and the missing wheel, Walter Harris, one of the searchers engaged in dragging the bay, reported that he found garments wrapped around the propeller of his motor boat.

MAY BE GIRL'S CLOTHES

Harris said the boat struck an object in the water, shuddered at the impact, and then went on. After the boat was taken to drydock, an examination disclosed a green skirt and blue shirt wrapped around the propeller. Police said the skirt may have belonged to Miss Gertrude Grennan, passenger on the plane. Grennan, passenger on the plane.

Clunan Calverley Wedding At W. O. W.

Miss Dorothy Frase Calverley, attractive young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Calverley, 310 Teddy avenue, San Francisco, became the bride, Saturday evening of last week, of James Martin Clunan, also of San Francisco. The wedding was held in the Woodmen of the World Hall, 17 Raymond avenue.

Judge Thomas M. Foley officiated at the ceremony which was performed under an arch of ferns and roses with white wedding bells as a central decoration.

The bride was given away by her father, Miss Kathleen Calverley was bridesmaid, and Richard Clunan was the groom's attendant.

In new advance spring Balero Jacker style, the bride wore a gray and carmine red ensemble. Her corsage was an orchid banked in lilies of the valley.

There was dancing, and buffet refreshments were served at the reception. The bride and groom are taking a short auto trip northward.

Road Progress From Valley To Mission

Visitacion avenue will soon be connected with McLaren drive to open a short direct route from Visitacion Valley to Mission street.

More than 40 men are at work on the McLaren drive, pushing to completion the connecting link to Visitacion avenue. The new road will traverse a portion of McLaren Park and will be bordered with scenic beauty.

The Visitacion Valley Improvement Club is also sponsoring other improvements: new water mains and additional land space for McLaren Field equipped with a field house and athletic facilities.

BILL DELAYED

The bill providing full pay retirement for supreme court justices at the age of 70 was delayed in Congress this week, by objections of minority Leader Charles L. McNary, Republican, Oregon, and Senator William H. King, Democrat, Utah.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lawson and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Malone attended a dinner dance in San Jose, Saturday evening of last week.

Mrs. Thelma Little and Mrs. Ruth Dufford attended the P. T. A. Seventeenth District meeting, Friday of last week.

BOXING INSTRUCTION

George Paiva, former inter collegiate middle weight champion who is now a boxing coach at the University of San Francisco, is again coaching aspirant pugilists at the Visitacion Valley Community Center, 66 Raymond avenue. Paiva gives instruction at the center every Thursday evening.

Child Delinquency Rate Low In V. V.

Child delinquency rate in Visitacion Valley stands at a minimum. This record is due largely to a spirit of co-operation among citizens and the schools.

Realizing that adequate recreational facilities must be provided children in order to maintain the established record, civic leaders of the valley recommend that a baseball field should be built with adequate dressing room facilities. Proposed site for the diamond is a portion of McLaren Park which lies within Visitacion Valley.

BAYSHORE NEWS

Friends and neighbors were grieved to hear that one of the unfortunate victims of the recent Golden Gate Bridge disaster was C. L. Lindross, 115 MacDonald avenue. Lindross had just arrived on the scaffold and had worked only a few minutes before it went crashing into the bay. He and his family have resided in Bayshore for approximately six months. Left is a widow and small son.

The Bayshore Fire Department under the direction of Chief Boehme Jr., rendered first aid to victims of a headon auto collision on Bayshore Highway, Sunday morning of this week.

The accident occurred near the bone coal yard. Three persons were killed and one critically injured.

SYNOPSIS

Philo Vance, famous detective, and John F. X. Markham, district attorney for New York county are dining in Vance's apartment when Vance receives an anonymous telephone message informing him of a "disturbing psychological tension at Professor Ephraim Garden's apartment" advising that he read up on radio-active sodium, consult a passage in the Aeneid and counseling that "Equanimity is essential." Professor Garden is famous in chemical research. The message, decoded by Vance, reminds him that Professor Garden's son Floyd and his puny cousin, Woode Swift, are addicted to horse-racing. Vance says that "Equanimity" is a horse running next day in the Rivermont handicap. Vance is convinced that the message was sent by Dr. Siefert, the Gardens' family physician. He arranges to have lunch next day at the Gardens' penthouse. Vance is greeted by Floyd Garden and meets Love Hamble, an elderly follower of horse racing. Floyd expresses concern over Swift's queer actions. Mrs. Garden, supposedly ill, comes downstairs and places a $100 bet on a horse. Gathered around an elaborate loud speaker service, listening to the racing are Cecil Kroon, Madge Weatherby and Zalia Graem, who bet varying amounts on the race. There is tension under the surface gaiety. Zalia and Swift are not on speaking terms. Kroon leaves to keep an appointment before the race starts. Miss Beeton, a nurse, and Vance bet on "Azure Star." Swift recklessly bets $10,000 on "Equanimity" and goes to the roof garden to hear the results. Floyd follows Swift, remaining away from the group several minutes. Zalia goes to the den to answer a telephone call. Soon after the announcement that "Azure Star" wins, the guests hear a shot. Vance finds Swift dead, shot through the head with a revolver nearby. He says Swift has been murdered. After calling the police, he finds the door of a vault ajar. Kroon returns and is sharply questioned by Vance, who finds he had not left the building. Vance orders Miss Beeton to guard the stairway and prevent Mrs. Garden and Zalia from viewing Swift's body.

CHAPTER IV—Continued

"Garden," he began, "there are a few things that I'd like to have cleared up before the district attorney and the police arrive." He turned about leisurely and sat down at the desk, facing Garden.

"Anything I can do to help," Garden mumbled, lighting his pipe.

"A few necessary questions, don't you know," Vance went on. "Hope they won't upset you, and all that. But this is, Mr. Markham will probably want me to take a hand in the investigations, since I was a witness to the preamble of this distressing tragedy."

"I hope he does," Garden returned. "It's a damnable affair, and I'd like to see the axe fall, no matter whom it might behead." His pipe was giving him trouble. "By the way, Vance," he went on quietly, "how did you happen to come here today? I've asked you so often to join our racing seance—and you pick the one day when the roof blows off the place."

Vance kept his eyes on Garden for a moment.

"The fact is," he said at length, "I got an anonymous telephone message last night, vaguely outlining the situation here and mentioning Equanimity."

Garden jerked himself up to keen attention.

"The devil you say!" he exclaimed. "That's a queer one. Man or woman?"

"Oh, it was a man," Vance replied casually.

Garden pursed his lips and, after a moment's meditation, said quietly:

"Well, anyway, I'm damned glad you did come. . . . What can I tell you that might be of help? Anything you want, old man."

"First of all, then," asked Vance, "did you recognize the revolver? I saw you looking at it rather apprehensively when we came out on the roof."

Garden frowned, and finally answered, as if with sudden resolution:

"Yes! I did recognize it. Vance. It belongs to the old gentleman."

"Your father?"

Garden nodded grimly. "He's had it for years. Why he ever got it in the first place, I don't know—he probably hasn't the slightest idea how to use it. . . ."

"By the by," Vance put in, "what time does your father generally return home from the university?"

"Why—why—" Garden hesitated and then continued: "on Saturdays he's always here early in the afternoon—rarely after three. Gives himself and his staff a half-holiday. . . . But," he added, "father's very erratic. . . ." His voice trailed off nervously.

Vance took two deep inhalations on his cigarette: he was watching Garden attentively. Then he asked in a soft tone:

"What's on your mind?—Unless, of course, you have good reason for not wanting to tell me."

Garden took a long breath and stood up. He seemed to be deeply troubled as he walked across the room and back.

"The truth is, Vance," he said, as he resumed his place on theavenport, "I don't even know where the pater is this afternoon. As soon as I came downstairs after Woody's death, I called him to give him the news. I thought he'd want to get here as soon as possible in the circumstances. But I was told that he'd locked up the laboratory and left the university about two o'clock."

CHAPTER V

I could not understand the man's perturbation; and I could see that it puzzled Vance as well. Vance endeavored to put him at his ease. "It really doesn't matter," he said, as if dismissing the subject.

"It may be just as well that your father doesn't learn of the tragedy till later," He smoked for a moment. "But to get back to the revolver: where was it usually kept?"

"In the center drawer of the desk upstairs," Garden told him promptly.

"And was the fact generally known to the other members of the household, or to Swift himself?"

Garden nodded. "Oh, yes. There was no secret about it. We often joked with the old gentleman about his 'arsenal.'"

"And the revolver was always loaded?"

"So far as I know, yes."

"And was there an extra supply of cartridges?"

"As to that, I cannot say," Garden answered; "but I don't think so."

"And here's a very important question, Garden," Vance went on. "How many of the people that are here today could possibly have known that your father kept this loaded revolver in his desk? Now, think carefully before answering."

Garden meditated for several moments. He looked off into space and puffed steadily on his pipe.

"I am trying to remember," he said reminiscently, "just who was here the day Zalia came upon the gun—"

"What day was that?" Vance cut in sharply.

"It was about three months ago," Garden explained. "You see, we used to have the telephone set-up connected upstairs in the study. But some of the western races came in so late that it began to interfere with the old gentleman's routine when he came home from the university. So we moved the paraphernalia down into the drawing room. As a matter of fact, it was more convenient; and the mater didn't object—in fact, she rather enjoyed it."

"But what happened on this particular day?" insisted Vance.

"Well, we were all upstairs in the study, going through the whole silly racing rigmarole that you witnessed this afternoon, when Zalia Graem, who always sat at the old gentleman's desk, began opening the drawers, looking for a piece of scratch paper on which to figure the mutuels. She finally opened the center drawer and saw the revolver. She brought it out with a flourish and, laughing like a silly school-girl, pointed it around the room. I reprimanded her—rather rudely, I'm afraid—and ordered her to put the revolver back in its place, as it was loaded—and just then a race came over the amplifier, and the episode was ended."

"Most interesting," murmured Vance. "And can you recall how many of those present today were likewise present at Miss Graem's little entrance?"

"I rather think they were all there, if my memory is correct," Vance sighed.

"A bit futile—eh, what? No possible elimination along that line," Garden looked up, startled.

"Elimination? I don't understand. We were all downstairs here this afternoon except Kroon—and he was out—when the shot was fired."

At this moment there was a slight commotion in the hallway. It sounded as if a scuffle of some kind was in process, and a shrill, protesting voice mingled with the calm but determined tones of the nurse. Vance went immediately to the door and threw it open. There, just outside the den door, only a short distance from the stairway, were Miss Weatherby and Miss Beeton. The nurse had a firm hold on the other woman and was calmly arguing with her. As Vance stepped toward them, Miss Weatherby turned to face him and drew herself up arrogantly.

"What's the meaning of this?" she demanded. "Must I be mauled by a menial because I wish to go upstairs?"

"Miss Beeton has orders that no one is to go upstairs," Vance said sternly. "And I was unaware that she is a menial."

"But why can't I go upstairs?" the woman asked with dramatic emphasis. "I want to see poor Woody. Death is so beautiful; and I was very fond of Woody. By whose orders, pray, am I being denied this last communion with the departed?"

"By my orders," Vance told her coldly. "Furthermore, this particular death is far from beautiful, I assure you. And the police will be here any minute. Until then no one will be permitted to disturb anything upstairs."

"Then why," she demanded with histrionic indignation, "was this woman"—she glanced with exaggerated contempt at the nurse—"coming down the stairs herself when I came into the hall?"

Vance made no attempt to hide a smile of amusement.

"I'm sure I don't know. I may ask her later. But she happens to be under instructions from me to let no one go upstairs. Will you be so good, Miss Weatherby," he added, almost harshly, "as to return to the drawing room and remain there until the officials arrive?"

The woman glared superciliously at the nurse, and then, with a toss of the head, strode toward the archway.

The nurse, obviously embarrassed, turned to resume her post, but Vance stopped her.

"Were you upstairs, Miss Beeton?" he asked in a kindly tone.

She was standing very erect, her face slightly flushed. She looked Vance frankly and firmly in the eye and slowly shook her head.

"I haven't left my post, Mr. Vance," she said quietly. "I understand my duty."

Vance returned her gaze for a moment, and then bowed his head slightly.

"Thank you, Miss Beeton," he said.

He came back into the den, and closing the door, addressed Garden again.

"Now that we have disposed temporarily of the theatrical queen,"—he smiled somberly—"suppose we continue with our little chat."

Garden chuckled mildly and began repacking his pipe.

"Queer girl, Madge; always acting like a tragedienne—but I don't think she's ever really been on the stage."

"You heard her tell me she was particularly fond of Swift," remarked Vance. "Just what did she mean by that?"

Garden shrugged. "Nothing at all, if you ask me. She didn't know that Woody was on earth, so to speak. But dead, Woody becomes a dramatic possibility."

"Yes, yes—quite," murmured Vance. "Which reminds me: what was the tiff between Swift and Miss Graem about? I noticed your little peace-maker advances this afternoon."

Garden became serious.

"I haven't been able to figure that situation out myself. Woody was pretty deep in the new-mown hay as far as Zalia went. Hovered round her all the time, and took all her good-natured bantering without a murmur. Then, suddenly, the embryonic love affair—or whatever it was—went sour. Obviously something had happened, but I never got the straight of it. It may have been a new flame on Woody's part—I rather imagine it was something of the kind. As for Zalia, she was never serious about it anyway. And I have an idea that Woody wanted that extra twenty thousand today for some reason connected with Zalia. . . ."

Garden stopped speaking abruptly and slapped his thigh. "By George! I wouldn't be surprised if that hard-bitten little gambler had turned Woody down because he was comparatively hard up. You can't tell about these girls today. They're as practical as the devil himself."

Vance nodded thoughtfully.

"Your observations rather fit with the remarks she made to me a little while ago. She, too, wanted to go upstairs to see Swift. Gave as her excuse the fact that she felt she was to blame for the whole sordid business."

Garden grinned.

"Well, there you are." Then he remarked judicially: "But you can never tell about women."

"I wonder," Vance smoked in silence for a moment. Then he went on: "There's another matter in connection with Swift which you might be able to clear up for me. Could you suggest any reason why, when I placed the bet on Azure Star for Miss Beeton this afternoon, Swift should have looked at me as if he would enjoy murdering me?"

"I saw that too," Garden nodded.

"I can't say it meant anything much. Woody was always a weak sister where any woman was concerned. It took little to make him think he'd fallen in love. He may have become infatuated with the nurse—he'd been seeing her around here for the past few months. And now that you mention it, he's been somewhat poisonous toward me on several occasions because she was more or less friendly with me and ignored him entirely. But I'll say this for Woody: if he did have ideas about Miss Beeton, his taste is improving. She's an unusual girl—different."

Vance nodded his head slowly and gazed with peculiar concentration out the window.

"Yes," he murmured. "Quite different." Then, as if bringing himself back from some alien train of thought, he crushed out his cigarette and leaned forward. "However, we'll drop speculation for the moment. . . . Suppose you tell me something about the vault upstairs."

Garden glanced up in evident surprise.

"There's nothing to tell about that old catch-all. It's neither mysterious nor formidable. And it's really not a vault at all. Several years ago the pater found that he had accumulated a lot of private papers and experimental data that he didn't want casual callers messing in. So he had this fire-proof storeroom built to house these scientific treasures of his. The vault, as you call it, was built as much for mere privacy as for actual safe-keeping. It's just a very small room with shelves around the walls."

"Has everyone in the house access to it?" asked Vance.

"Anyone so inclined," replied Garden. "But who in the name of Heaven, would want to go in there?"

"Really, y' know, I haven't the foggiest notion," Vance returned, "except that I found the door to it unlatched when I was coming downstairs a little while ago."

Division of Time—

Quiet Pleasures to Punctuate the Rush of Life Are Sought

THE rush of life that leaves persons no time for deliberation, nor the pursuit of happiness in their own special ways, has seemed to reach its apex. Already there is a trend toward leisurely living, the sort that claims the right to dispose of hours not occupied in business or housekeeping, in ways of personal choice rather than of group determining.

Today, in the modern ways of living, time is divided into two units, one of which is work, the other diversion rather than play. As soon as work is over, or can be interrupted, the time is given over to diversion. Some persons work most of the time and some persons spend most of their time in diversions. The division of hours between these two things is uneven, but however divided, no waking time is left.

Spare Time.

While each of us should work part of our time, it is the matter of how we spend the rest of our time that is now coming under special consideration. There is a growing discontent that seems to bode good. Why should any of us be bound to do in time which is our own, what this or that group is doing because at the moment it is the popular thing? Can we have no evenings to ourselves? Must we fall in line with the wishes of friends? Must we do exactly as others are doing whether this means being with them, or simply doing such things as they do?

Home Diversions.

Shall the rare pleasures of home be invaded? Or shall we decide to spend some quiet evenings in reading favorite books or delving into those new ones we realize would be liked? Shall we have time to devote to needlecraft, to music, to studying some language, to pursuing some hobby or doing anything to enrich ourselves or to make something beautiful?

Enriching Diversions.

All these things are diversions from necessary work, but they are the sort that repay us by making life more worth living, and not the kinds that merely absorb attention for the time being, and leave us depleted rather than replenished. If we wish to master time rather than be mastered by it, we must use at least a portion of our time when work is through in following out our own personal preferences in our diversions.

Leisure.

When we do this we have real leisure, one definition of which is, "time available for some particular purpose, spare time." One great cause for being rushed is trying to do what everyone else is doing, rather than determining for ourselves what we will do.

DEAN SUSPENDED

The California State Athletic Commission recently suspended Man Mountain Dean from wrestling competition. The 300 pound mat champion is barred from the ring for 60 days on a charge that he leaped into the air and dropped on a prostrate opponent in a Los Angeles match.

Kind is engendered by kind. To have friends, one must first be a friend.

BRIDGE FIESTA OPENING IS SET A WEEK LATER

Celebration Dates Revised In Order That Navy May Join In Program

Plans for the Golden Gate Bridge Fiesta in San Francisco, in connection with the opening of the longest single span in the world, were revised this week to provide for a seven day celebration from May 27 to June 2.

This action was taken after the formal opening of the bridge had been postponed for one week by the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District to permit the Navy to participate in the Fiesta.

The new bridge opening dates are May 27 for pedestrians and May 28 for vehicles.

The Navy will send 150 warships to San Francisco for the greatest peace time naval demonstration ever seen in an American port. The fleet will arrive in San Francisco May 29 and would remain here a week.

The ships will come to San Francisco directly from the annual maneuvers at sea and will bring between 60,000 and 70,000 officers and enlisted men.

Plans of the navy did not provide for the fleet to come to San Francisco originally, and it was only to permit naval participation in the Fiesta that the Navy Department agreed to curtail the maneuvers one week and order the vessels to proceed here from sea.

V. F. W. Auxiliary Whist Party

Mrs. Ella Schlamm, with the assistance of Mrs. Julia Salmirs, entertained Tuesday of this week, at her home in Lomita Park, a whist party sponsored by the V. F. W. Auxiliary.

High score awards went to Mrs. Kathryn Williams, Mrs. Emma McClure, Mrs. Meek, Mrs. Williford, Glenn Chase, Mrs. R. Thornton, Mrs. Nancy A. Smith, Mrs. Minedes Carlin, Mrs. Julia Salmirs, Ed. Berg, Mrs. Bowman, Mrs. Tamulenas, Gilbert Thornton, Mrs. Rogers, and L. W. Preston.

Consolations were won by Genevieve Preston, Harold Rich and J. Tamulenas.

Mrs. Minedes Carlin won the door prize and Mrs. William I. Farmer the beautiful cake.

Others present were Mrs. I. Welter, Mrs. Jeanne Berg, Mrs. J. Murphy, Mrs. C. M. Barnes, W. A. McClure, Mrs. Carmen Lawrence, Mrs. Sage, Herbert Snow, Mrs. L. Osmer, Mrs. H. A. Hazel Chase, Agnes Sargent, M. C. Haws, J. W. Mott, C. E. Danner, Mrs. May Mulvaney and Shirley Salmirs.

Following the game refreshments were served, and an enjoyable evening was spent by all present.

S. M. County May Consider Road Tax

One of the paramount issues in the preparation of the 1937-38 San Mateo County budget is the laying of a new program for road upkeep and improvement. Due to the present situation which prevails in the county road system it will be necessary to entirely revamp the present maintenance program.

Responsibility for eliminating dangerous conditions following a severe winter now faces the Board of Supervisors. Urgent repairs and improvements are necessary in many sections.

The board has requested County Engineer Marshall to supply a detailed list of names and mileage of roads in the first, second, third and fourth class systems, and particularly those roads accepted by the county under blanket resolution last year. This listing will supply a groundwork which supervisors may determine the extent of their 1937-38 program.

Road Maintenance funds financed by state gas tax apportionment have been greatly depleted, particularly as a result of current storm damage.

A definite program will be necessary for 1937-38, and if the county is to limit its road activities to the amount of gas tax revenue it must base a budget on a four or five year plan, taking in new roads.

There is a growing feeling among the supervisors that a general fund outlay for road purposes, or even partial restoration of the old road tax, may be required in the face of heavy demands for maintenance and improvements.

"The present situation is very bad," one board member recently declared. "Sixty-six per cent of the 1936-37

RETREAT UNDER FIRE

It's a race with death for these fugitives from the British garrison in this thrilling moment from "The Charge of the Light Brigade," the Warner Bros. picture which comes to the Avenue Theater tomorrow. road budget has been spent in the first six months, from necessity. The engineer probably will be forced to call on the board for additional funds before the end of this fiscal year."

It has been recommended that the road program for the next fiscal year be set up immediately in order that the supervisors may "know where they stand."

FLOATING DOCK

Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Swanson asked this week that the bureau of the budget recommend an additional $5,000,000 for construction of a proposed huge floating dry dock for Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

Protect Homes By Filing Homestead

Owners of homes valued up to $5000 may protect their property against loss by filing a declaration of homestead. This action may be taken whether the property is paid for or not, and it will protect the resident against law suits, judgments and attachments.

Information concerning the filing of a declaration of homestead may be obtained from the Brisbane tract office.

Suicide Attempt In Daly City Jail

Eugene Consono, 56, Colma, was treated at the Community Hospital, Saturday of last week, for injuries inflicted in what police termed a suicide attempt while he was in the Daly City jail.

Consono asked police last Friday night for permission to sleep in the jail. Soon after being booked he slashed his left wrist with a concealed pocket knife, the officers said. The injured man was taken to the hospital, where two stitches were taken to close the wound.

Aside from being weak from loss of blood, Consono's condition is not serious, hospital attendants reported.

Jaysee To Give Founders Program

All mothers interested in San Mateo Junior College are cordially invited to attend the Founders Day program to be held at the college, Thursday afternoon of next week at 2 o'clock. Charles S. Morris, principal of the college, will address the group.
